

Andy Rogers

Andy is a practicing mediator and a member of the Executive Team at CEDR. Since 2007 he has worked on a large number of disputes across varied sectors from the purely commercial to those with highly personal and emotional issues. His clients range from private individuals through to large multinational organisations. Andy is a member of the CEDR Mediator Panel and a registered Mediator with the International Chamber of Commerce and as well as a member of the CEDR Mediation Skills Training Faculty.

His mediation practice expertise is in Commercial Contracts, Construction & Engineering, Property, Wills & Probate and Employment & Workplace. Andy has a particular understanding of issues relating to reputation from his senior background in this field, which is reflected in his mediation practice. He is a member of the Chartered Institute of Public Relations.

Andy is a Trustee and Board Director of the Civil Mediation Council, the recognised authority in the jurisdiction of England & Wales for all matters related to civil, commercial, workplace and other non-family mediation, where he co-chairs the Standards and Registration Committee.

Andy is also a Civil Mediation Council Fellow. This recognises Andy's status as a leader in the field and for their outstanding contribution to the development of the mediation profession.

Andy joined CEDR 2005 and he was responsible for CEDR's communications, managing marketing and public relations for many years. He has consulted on numerous ADR projects, including ones in Europe, Asia, Africa and the Middle East. Prior to joining CEDR Andy was a Senior Communications Account Director in two public relations consultancies, where he headed business units, advising private corporations and government bodies on managing their reputations.

In his career he has worked on and led projects in Canada, Egypt, France, Germany, Georgia, Ireland, Italy, Lebanon, Moldova, Morocco, Netherlands, Pakistan, Spain, Switzerland and the UK.
